

THE ROTHMAN ORTHOPAEDIC INSTITUTE
Foundation for Opioid Research & Education

ASIF ILYAS, MD, MBA, FACS

President

Rothman Opioid Foundation

Professor of Orthopaedic Surgery
Thomas Jefferson University

The Rothman Opioid Foundation is a 501c3 non-profit organization based in southeastern Pennsylvania launched to help combat and ultimately end the Opioid Crisis in America. The Foundation has 3 goals:

- (1) To support pain management research aimed at decreasing the need for opioids for acute and chronic pain.
- (2) To educate patients and prescribers on safe opioid consumption and prescribing habits, respectively.
- (3) To advocate to our legislators on evidenced-based opioid policies.

SEEKING:	A full-time Foundation Fellow for 1 year (July 1, 2022 – June 30, 2023), who is passionate and committed to a career in medicine and/or public health policy. Please note: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Start and end dates can be flexible. - Will be primarily remote but with regular in person coordination.
COMPENSATION:	$40,000 stipend for the year, without benefits.
ELIGIBILITY:	Must be a U.S. Citizen. Must have completed an undergraduate degree.
RESPONSIBILITIES:	Coordinate and support new and ongoing educational projects. Track, coordinate, write, edit, and submit ongoing research. Organize and execute new research trials. Support grant program execution and reporting. Facilitate meetings and events.
SKILLS:	Strong communication skills Strong writing and editing skills Strong organizational skills Google Doc/Sheets skills Microsoft Word/Excel/Powerpoint skills
APPLICATIONS:	Interested applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, personal statement (300 word max articulating your past experiences and subsequent interest in this role), CV, one letter of recommendation, and non-fiction / scientific writing or publication sample(s), (2 max) to: Lilly.Caso@rothmanopioid.org